What is Working Forward?

SUPPORTING PREGNANCY AND MATERNITY RIGHTS

A national solutions based initiative launched in September 2016, calling on British businesses to make our workplaces the best they can be for pregnant women and new mothers and ensure that female talent is nurtured and valued.

Driven by a coalition of high profile employers leading the way on supporting pregnancy and maternity rights.

Why we want to drive change of mothers say they have received a negative or possible discriminatory experience at work according to our research.

If scaling up to the general population, this would mean a total of 390,000 women are affected each year.

Why we want to drive change

However, the majority of employers (84%) recognise it was in their interests to support pregnant employees and employees on maternity leave.

So we want to bridge the gap between employee experience and employer perception and understanding.

Supporting mothers in the workplace makes business sense.

Financial return

Companies that retain more women are not only doing the right thing but can also gain a competitive edge. Businesses in the top quartile for gender diversity are 15 per cent more likely to outperform the national industry median.

76 per cent of businesses report that it improves staff retention and 73 per cent report that it improves staff motivation.

Britain could add £600 billion to our economy if we equalise women's productivity and employment to the same level as men's.

Re-hiring staff costs employers. Average cost of recruitment (up to £7k for a senior manager in the private sector)

Backed by Government

Business Minister
Margot James MP

“As the Prime Minister has made clear, we’re building an economy that works for all and the EHRC’s Working Forward campaign to rid the workplace of pregnancy discrimination will help to achieve that goal”
